Dear C. M. Your notion as to whether we have any garden did so amuse me that I have purchased a sheet of paper with a picture of our small promontory, & made a small hole where our house should be so that when you lift it up you may fancy yourself looking into our staircase window, all the rooms look the other way up into the mountains my best love I say I do not wish the women led & will write next week again I R.

between which I ourselves nothing but hay fields intervene on the lake itself for it is shaped in & out between each mountain near was such an irregular coast & when we sail on the lake it requires to have done it often before one knows which side one is going to. We are so close to Pilatus that I allowed the children to go with the party the other day & after breakfast at 5.30. He did not see them again till 10. wh may explain to you they are in pretty good health I though it looks so near it is so steep they have to go many rounds in & out before reaching the top.

Eva & Arthur Gordon went & slept at the top & came down in the morning with 2 gentlemen accustomed to climb who think it was perfect cruelty to animals to let children go, but I am wished to set off as fresh the minute he got to the bottom. Miss Greville & one Swiss servant who went sat down & cried & prevented their reaching the steamer, wherefore they had to reach home in a row boat 2 1/2 hours 10 people rowed by 2 men. standing up as is always the way here.
We have been very fortunate in our servants they are really pleasant people

I speak French & German only & Emma is considerably lost & makes no effort to learn any word at all. One pretty girl dries away at English & say dear little darling come here do Edgar. We have to have a man to fetch our food & date. our bread & 2 for 1 our water from the bottom of the hill & it is just like ice when it gets here. We have such a lovely summer home I only hope I shall ~~not grow so much~~ when I go into winter quarters wh must be small indeed in comparison. Whether my sister comes now or in the spring they purpose taking their chicks for 4 years but my sister is too kind in hoping I will always stay &c. &c. The other fiction had only been a Brandy powder wh she had never heard of. I had required 2 Bs to make it. I quite forgot the Cheque wh is as well in one way as I can send for Mr. Hoppen & Susan too but please not today Give them
